Lawrence Finds G. O. P. Factions Lukewarm in Anticipation of Return of Root From Conference.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE. (Special Correspondent of The News

MARION, O., Aug. 13.—World poli-tics, the disturbing situation in Poland and the menace of Bolshevism, the American government's note refusing American government's note retusing to recognise the Bolshevik regime and expressing again friendship for the Rus-fine people, have failed to draw any comment from Senator Harding, the Republican candidate for the presi-

Republican candidate for the presidency.

Beyond the general statement made in his speech at Columbus, the senator declined to say a word on what he considers a pending matter of state.

"When he said 'there is just as much menace in the world today as siere was in the turbulence of war, rivilization has not settled down," his learers interpreted that utterance as having been inspired by a reading of the distressing reports from Poland.

The senator confined himself to the hope that America would "stand as a barrier to revolution and disorder throughout the world," but did not go into detail as to how the United States might use her influence in that direction most effectively. The mention of the use of force in fighting Bolshevism by aiding foreign armies is just as much taboo in Republican as Democratic circles. For the campaign against the league of nations has been carried on so much on the theory that the United States would have to send soldiers across the seas to mix in European quarrels that neither candidate is to be found urging military beind for Poland.

Democrats' Doctrine Known.

Democrats' Doctrine Known.

Senator Harding, however, did not even intimate that America should do more than protect her own boundaries against the spread of Bolshevism by standing on firm foundations and settling affairs at home. The Democratic doctrine is that unrest in America is partially the result of disorder abroad, and that the possible spread of Bolshevism across Poland and into Germany and the continent of Europe can not but effect the economic life of America through depreciation of forcign currency and the continued inability of European countries to pay America her interest on the $10,000,000, 500. loaned them during the war, a fac-which, it is contended, has much do with the depreciation of Liberty onds.

Of course, the Democrats claim, too, that, had there been an effective concert of power in Europe, had the present league of nations not been impaired in functioning through the failure of the American senate to permit the United States to throw her moral force in the scales of Europe, the new rejublic of Poland might have been saved long before this.
But the Republican doctrine on such things is as yet undefined for, while Senator Hiram Johnson has given his piedge to take an extremely active part senator Hiram Johnson has given his pledge to take an extremely active part in the campaign against the league of pations and the treaty, another element in the Republican party looks forward with keen anticipation to the return of Ellhu Root from Europe with a new plan to preserve world peace.

Root, it will be remembered, thought the covenant should be qualified by reservations and, while he was willing at the outset to take Article 10 with a reservation, he later denounced the whole thing and finally wrote the league of nations plank, which was embodied in the Republican national platform at Chiesgo last June. Since that time he has been actively entaged in drawing up, in company with the jurists of other countries, a constitution for the permanent court of international justice, the establishment of which was provided for in the league of nations covenant brought back by President Wilson.

Root Is Coddled.

But Roct's journey to Europe has meant conferences with many of the statesmen over there who think he will be the biggest influence in the Harding administration if the senator is elected—and European diplomats usually take no chances. They try to get in en the ground floor with whatever administration seems likely to be in pow-outlined in conversation with European officials and judio men the objections which the Republican party has to the Wilson covenant, and the expectation is that Europe, in order to get American support, will be more than willing to accept the modifications which Eliha Root suggests.

officials and tublic men the objections which the Republican party has to the Wilson covenant, and the expectation is that Europe, in order to get American support, will be more than willing to accept the modifications which Eliha Root suggests.

Aiready there is a feeling here that Senator Harding will be materially assisted by the return of Root for. If the man who wrote the platform pledge for "a" league of nations comes back with a set of amendments to "the" league of nationr, as it exists at present, there will be little doubt of Harding's readiness to urge the entrance of the United States into "the" league of nations at an early date. With extreme opponents like Hiram Johnson, the impression which such a proposal by Root would make, is conjectural but, with friends of the league and treaty, the help to Senator Harding by a concrete interpretation of the platform pledge would be immersurable.

The Democratic sages, however, believe the effect of Root's return will be to reveal both Republican and Democratic candidates as in favor of the The" league with reservations. If generally accepted the effect would be to neutralize the issue and turn the campaign to domestle questions alto gether.

Chairman Will Hays, who twice persuaded Root to outline Republican policy on the league at crucial moments, and who got from him the league of nations plank for the Republican policy on the league at crucial moments, and who got from him the league of nations plank for the Republican policy of state. While here the other day, Hays maintained a mysterious silence on the subject of Root's activity in the middle of the campaign.

Last January she had a severe attack of pneumonia and for a time no hope was held out for her recovery.
